

CAMPUS LIFE AT SAINT JOSEPH'S
OF INDIANA

TRAINING FOR LEADERSHIP...

the college education a man gains at Saint Joseph's does more than prepare him for his life's work; it prepares him as well for life itself. His Saint Joseph's education is geared to develop the whole man — intellectual and moral, social and physical. Through this over-all development, and by expansion of his special talents, he is trained for useful leadership in his community and in his chosen field of work.

INTELLECTUAL • MORAL • SOCIAL • PHYSICAL

AT SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE A LARGE FACULTY AND A SMALL STUDENT BODY MAKE POSSIBLE MUCH INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION. FROM THE MOMENT THE STUDENT ARRIVES ON THE CAMPUS HE KNOWS THAT HE IS AMONG FRIENDS INTERESTED IN HIS WELFARE.

SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE Collegeville, Indiana

From its modest beginning in 1889 as an academy and junior college, Saint Joseph's progressed steadily toward the highly-rated, four-year college status it enjoys today. Approved as a degree-granting senior college in 1936, Saint Joseph's discontinued the academy in 1948. But the College's constant physical growth, with the two new residence halls completed in 1955, has made possible a total enrollment now of more than 800 students.

location

The College is located near Rensselaer, Indiana, on State Highway 53 (U.S. 231). Eighty miles south of Chicago and 110 miles northwest of Indianapolis, Saint Joseph's is connected with both by the Monon Railroad. The campus, a 130-acre beauty spot, is situated in the center of the College's two-and-a-half square miles of farm and woodland.

living endowment

Conducted by the priests of the Society of the Precious Blood, Saint Joseph's endowment is in contributed services. The highly educated priests, who serve in administrative and instructional capacities, the Society's brothers who do specialized work in various offices and departments, and the sisters who operate the kitchens and dining halls work without financial remuneration. Their lives are dedicated to the education of Saint Joseph's men, to the training of future leaders.

student body

For a Saint Joseph's education, young men come from nearly every section of the United States and from several foreign countries. Although largely from families of moderate means, the students also represent a wide variety of social and economic backgrounds.

the campus and buildings at Saint Joseph's are far-famed for their beauty and efficiency. Twenty buildings, seven of which are residence halls for students, provide ample housing for all campus activities. To insure smooth operation in all areas, the College maintains its own power plant, carpentry and other work shops. A health clinic and spacious recreation hall also contribute to the self-sufficiency of campus life at Saint Joseph's.

the library, a vital part of any educational program, is completely modern in appearance and operation. It provides pleasant, well-lighted reading rooms and stack areas containing more than 60,000 books and bound periodicals. Special features include conference rooms, individual booths for private study and research, facilities for typing and microfilm reading, and a wide selection of current periodicals.

laboratories of the various science departments are housed in the Arts and Science Building, where the College's classrooms, the library, and auditorium also are located. Up-to-date in every respect, the laboratories are designed to give maximum undergraduate training to students in the technical fields and to others seeking a broad foundation of knowledge.

saint joseph's chapel is the heart of campus religious life. Its twin towers, overlooking the campus and countryside, have become a landmark and a symbol of modern Christian education.

the fieldhouse and outdoor athletic fields provide first-rate facilities for the varsity and many intramural athletic teams.

The athletic set-up at Saint Joseph's is so ideal that the professional football Chicago Bears have made the College their summer training headquarters since 1943.

the college cafeteria at Saint Joseph's is justly famous for the quality and quantity of food served. Prepared by the nuns, under the supervision of a graduate dietitian, the meals come directly from modern, immaculate kitchens. The College also has its own bakery, to supply a variety of fresh pastries for Saint Joseph's tables.

the farm, although no longer a general supplier of College food, does provide a large share of the poultry and dairy products for the cafeteria. The dairy is now housed in a plant built and operated in the latest scientific methods. All farming operations, grain and livestock, are conducted by brothers and employees.

WITH THE COMPLETION OF HIS FOUR HAPPY YEARS IN COLLEGE, WHERE NOT ONLY A DEDICATED FACULTY BUT ALSO HIS MANY STUDENT FRIENDS HAVE BEEN INTERESTED IN EVERY PHASE OF HIS DEVELOPMENT, THE SAINT JOSEPH'S MAN HAS LAID THE GROUNDWORK FOR A LIFETIME OF USEFUL LEADERSHIP.

the faculty, educated by advanced work in leading universities in this country and abroad, is composed of 45 priests and 25 laymen. The small ratio of students to faculty, about twelve to one, insures a more personalized teaching process than is possible at most other schools.

fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Saint Joseph's is also a member of or accredited by the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the Commission on Christian Higher Education of the A.A.C., the Indiana Association of Church Related and Independent Colleges, the Indiana Conference of Higher Education, the National Catholic Education Association, the State of Indiana Department of Public Instruction and many other academic organizations. The college is also approved by the American Medical Association for pre-medical training.

sixteen departments offer major programs leading to the Bachelor's degree. They are Accounting, Business Administration, Economics, Sociology, Politics, History, Education, Physical Education, Philosophy, English, English-Journalism, Biology, Biology-Chemistry, Chemistry, Geology, and Mathematics.

Minors are offered in each of the above and also in French, German, Journalism, Music, Physics, Religion, Spanish and Speech. Preparatory programs are offered in Dentistry, Law, Medicine, and Theology.

A total of 303 courses are offered at Saint Joseph's.

"three-two" programs in Engineering and Agriculture are worked out in cooperation with leading universities in those fields. Under the plan, a student who wishes to combine liberal arts with engineering or agriculture (strongly recommended by the professional societies) may attend Saint Joseph's for three years, then two years at one of the cooperating universities, where he can complete advance courses in his field. In this way he can receive a Bachelor of Arts degree from Saint Joseph's at the end of his fourth year, and a Bachelor of Science degree from the school of engineering or agriculture at the end of the fifth year.

financial aid and Scholarship programs may be offered a limited number of students who meet the necessary requirements. These programs include academic scholarships, grants-in-aid and various student employment opportunities.

the individual student is the basis for all guidance at Saint Joseph's. From the thorough orientation program when he enters as a freshman, to the active Placement Bureau when he leaves as a college graduate, the Saint Joseph's man feels the personal interest in his own needs. Each student has a faculty counselor to consult at any time regarding his academic, vocational or personal matters. Each faculty advisor has access to grades, test results, health records and other pertinent information on his counselees in order to be fully acquainted with their individual problems. Other valuable personnel services include the Reading and Study clinics, designed to increase the student's efficiency and pleasure in learning.

the well-rounded development of a Saint Joseph's student involves much more than academic and moral training. Students are encouraged to participate in a variety of extracurricular activities—cultural and professional, athletic and social.

cultural activities, enjoyed by both participants and spectators, include the College glee club, choir, and band, and the Columbian Players, the Saint Joseph's dramatic organization—all of which present frequent concerts or plays.

religious groups active on the campus are the Don Bosco Club, the Holy Name Society, the Mission Society, Sanguinist Club, and the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

athletics at Saint Joseph's are of interest and benefit to nearly every student. The varsity teams in football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis and golf have long been respected in inter-collegiate competition. Saint Joseph's is a member of the Indiana Collegiate Conference. The Puma letter-men automatically become members of the campus Monogram Club. Intramural athletics, which provide healthful sport for a large percentage of Saint Joseph's men, and which offer league competition in the major sports, as well as in bowling, volleyball, table tennis and many others, are active the year 'round.

professional organizations which stimulate interest in their fields are the Commerce and History clubs, and those for chemistry, geology, and biology students.

campus publications, written and edited by the students themselves, are STUFF, the bi-weekly student newspaper; PHASE, the pictorial yearbook; and MEASURE, the literary journal which contains only student-written articles and stories, plays, essays, poetry and book reviews.

The monthly alumni newspaper, CONTACT, keeps all former students informed about affairs at their Alma Mater and about the progress of their former schoolmates.

the student council, with elected representatives of various classes and organizations, not only gives the students a voice in many campus problems, but also provides excellent training in political and democratic processes.

the social side of a man's development is not neglected at Saint Joseph's. The social organizations include a Lake County, a Fort Wayne, and a Chicago club, and an active Veteran's Club. Many of the campus activities, including several informal dances, or "mixers," bring groups of students to the campus from neighboring Catholic girls' colleges. A Homecoming Dance and a formal Spring Prom further round out the Saint Joseph's social life.

training for leadership means many things at Saint Joseph's, and none is neglected—intellectual or moral, social or physical. All are important in the development of a Saint Joseph's Man.
